Husband. Wife. Five Children There Was An Increase of About and Sister of Wife Drowned In Gulch

CATASTROPHE OCCURS SUNDAY IN KULA, MAUI

Avalanche of Water Overwhelms Victims But Their Horse and Wagon Escape

A tragedy, paralleled only once in Hawaii when a Portuguese family, consisting of husband and drowned at the landing in Honokaa, Hamakua, Hawaii, a quarter of a century ago, occurred in the Waiakoa Gulch, near the camp of that name, in Kula, Maui, last Sunday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Pacheco, their five children and a sister of Mrs. Pacheco were drowned in the gulch as they were making a crossing.

Only meager news of the catastrophe has reached Honolulu, the most authentic and ample story of the wholesale drowning being received here yesterday by John P. Dias of the Sociedade Lusitana Beneficente de Hawaii, of which mutual benefit organization Pacheco was a member. One of the letters was from Jose Teixeira, agent of the society in Kahului, Maui, and the other from a member living in Waiakoa, near the scene of the disaster. Horse and Wagon Escape

From what can be gathered by these letters, Pacheco, who was a fireman with the Kahului Railroad Company, living at Kahului. but having a farm in Kula, was taking his wife and children, a sister of Mrs. Pacheco accompanying them, for a drive Sunday afternoon. There were no eye witnesses to the wiping out of in south King street, $66,800; Schuthis whole family, so far as can be learned at this time. Buried In One Grave

The Maui police held an inquest over the bodies, which were all buried in one grave Monday in the cemetery of the Catholic Church at Kuan.

Pacheco had a father-in-law, brother and sister in Maui. His father is now living in California. The Lusitana society sent over to Maui yesterday $200 to defray the funeral expenses of the deceased. Open Shop' Started Trouble The Los Angeles explosion, in which four men were killed, was the result Gen. Harrison Gray Gtis, proprietor of the paper, insisted on keeping an open shop, and after a bitter fight won his point. After the outrage Los Angeles and San Francisco labor unions repudiated any complicity in the affair, and offered a reward for the arrest of the dynamiters. Investigation showed that the explosive had been purchased by three men, who were identified as J. B. McNamara, Schmidt and Kaplan. Following Me-Manigal's confession J. J. McNamara, secretary and treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was indicted as the brains of the conspiracy,

At the trial of the McNamaras it was finally arranged that James B. should plead guilty murder in the second degree and his brother, John., to a lesser crime in return for the dropping of all other . days.
